

What to bring with you to your appointment

- If you have been served or provided with court papers from - bring them with you.
- A completed New Client Intake Form. This form may be completed in our office or you can print and complete it in advance of your appointment.
- Copies of prior year's tax returns. Two years preferred.
- Your pay stubs for at least 2 months.
- Your spouse's/former spouse's pay stubs for at least 2 months (if available)
- Any evidence you have in your possession that you think is important to your case. These materials have a strange way of becoming difficult to find as litigation progresses so getting it early is important. To assist you may want to look for the following items:
  - police reports
  - photos
  - copies of e-mails and text
  - a print-out of your spouses social network profile
  - credit card receipts
  - audio/video tapes
  - a list of potential witnesses
- A copy of your most recent mortgage statement if you are buying your home, otherwise a copy of your current lease if you rent.
- A copy of the prior year's property tax statement to your home - Not required if you lease.
- Your car insurance card - it has vehicle VINs that will be needed in the future
- Copies of any credit statements covering the preceding six months. If six months of statements are not available, at least bring the most recent. These statements be provided for each of the following:
  - credit cards
  - car loans
  - personal loans
- School records for the children
- Medical records - if the child has any special medical needs or you are asserting the other parent has injured the child
- Receipts for extra-curricular activities at school if you plan to ask the other side to pay a portion of these costs.